HONGRONG, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, 188 WHEN the houses on Morrison Hill were struck with lightning two years ago, the question of putting up lightning rods was freely discussed. Previous to that warning, it was assumed with some reason that the city Victoria was almost entirely exempt from danger by lightning. Whether the lofty peaks on the other side of the water, or the lesser hills on this side were or were not supposed to shield the comparative immunity from lightning strokes had engendered a certain amount is the sequel of that good of confidence and lack of precaution. The miraculous escape recorded in last night's issue slipuld serve as a sufficient warning. were it not that it was an escape. But it should be borne in mind that lightning cannot and ought not always to beexpected to make the circuit of an apartment and so considerately avoid the occupants as it fortunately did on this occasion. Every means, therefore, in our power should be adopted to stave off the possibility of a recurrence of such visitations. It is admitted that we can have but little influence in preventing thunderstorms; indeed, it is not clear that adequate good would result were we in a position to do so, as a theory is advanced by some that say a couple of average thunderstorms so relieve the atmospheric powers of nature that the more terrible visitations of typhoons are rendered extremely improbable. But it is only reasonable, in face of present conditions and demonstrated facis, to assert that houses should now be provided with lightning rode just as certainly as they are constructed with the view of resisting the force of a typhoon. DURING the proceedings of the Coroner's Inquest at the Government Civil Hospital last Monday evening, it transpired that the Tung Wah Hospital did not muster amongst its scientific implements or appliances, such a thing as a stomach pump. Had such an instrument been available and applied by skilful hands, the life of the woman whose death was then enquired into, would in all probability have been prolong d. At the conclusion of the enquiry the jury expressed a desire to have it placed on record that they were of opinion that the means of preserving life at the Tung Wah Hospital were most inchicient, and they earnestly hoped that some measures would be taken to have the establishment supplied with more complete instruments and medicines. This opinion was, it appears, embodied in the form of a special finding, after our Reporter had left

And Mrs B. Davis, who made her first appearance here, proved herself espable of better things than she had the opportunity of doing in the comparatively subordinate character which fell to her lot. If the very interesting letters now being printed in the Times under the heading o Through Siberia" are to be believed, the popular idea of the fate of prisoners sontenced to hard labour in the mines of Siberia is a somewhat exaggerated one. It is generally believed that a man condemned to work in the Siberian mines is virtually condemned to death; that when he descends into his mine he says good-bye to the light of heaven for ever, being kept underground until he dies; and that, living as he thus does amid unhealthy fumes, death is not long in coming. The correspondent of the Times, having heard these statements before he went to Fiberia, appears to have taken some trouble to ascertain whether they are true or not, and after many inquiries " common fairness," he writes, "compele me to say that every one denied that there was any foundation for them. Even," he continues, "the few Poles who spoke so bitterly of the Government did not bring this to their charge; nor did I meet any of the convicts who said as much.". On the contrary, the silver mines were, so far as he could learn, worked on the twelve and sometimes even on the eight hour system : while in the gold mines, which he himself visited, the men worked in summer from six in the morning till seven at night, with intervals of rest for meals. In the coal writer that the amount of work allolted to each man per day ought to be got through by an energetic workman in a co ple of bours. On the other hand, it appears that flogging in not infrequently inflicted in a barbarous manner in Siberia. At three stations, but apparently at three stations only-at Kara, Nic laievak, and Saghalien -an instrument called the "troichatks." or plait, is used. From twenty to fifty stripes are usually administered, though the number may be made a hundred; and the writer adds that "when the heavy num. bers are inflicted the punishment must be little abort of an execution. Sometimes, in fact, the convicts do not recover from its offects."-Pall Mall Gazette.
